"I was a participant in the UCEAP program in 2012, which consisted of two immersive studies in the Netherlands and Germany. The program was not only education, but a great opportunity to explore each country's unique cross-cultural exchange of cuisine, arts, history, and the nature of their current sociopolitical climate. Most of all, I came out with friends and a better understanding of the benefits and problems associated with globalization." - Jason Cardenas (RLST 2012), Religion, Secularism, & Civil Societies, UCEAP Faculty Led Study Abroad Program, 2013.
