CURRENT PROJECTS

My forthcoming book, Queer Nuns: Religion, Activism, and Serious Parody, focuses on what I suggest is an innovation in performative activism: the simultaneously serious and parodic relationship with religion embodied by the Sisters of Perpetual Indulgence. Founded in San Francisco in 1979, this organization of eye-catching self-described "queer nuns for the twenty-first century" engages in everything from safer sex education to fundraising to street protest. The manuscript is in press, and will be published in the Sexual Cultures series at NYU Press in April 2018. I am also working on a textbook on queer religiosities for Rowman & Littlefield, and a co-authored textbook on religion and human sexuality that is forthcoming from Routledge. My next book project will focus on the erotics of religion and sacrilege through an examination of the use of religious themes, roles, and imagery in queer sexual cultures.
